Ground is Broken for New Memorial Building Today

Ceremony at Eight-thirty is Attended by About 100

Representatives of various organizations interested in scouting and youth activities, other interested parties and the grade school boys scouts were on hand at the site of the new Leila Anderson Memorial scout building this morning for a brief ceremony in breaking ground for the new building.

The ceremony was opened by Dr. Deering, chairman of the building committee, who touched on the benefits to the youth of the community and the generosity of C. K. Anderson, who has made the building possible. Mr. Anderson replied to the effect that the building would serve the youth of the community in time to come as well as now and added that the use of the building would not be confined strictly to the boy and girl scouts, but would be available for other organizations as the board of directors of the Memorial Foundation sees fit.

Mr. Anderson was publicly thanked by Past Commander Al Swenson of the Antioch Legion post at the conclusion of his talk. Swenson was commander of the local post when the scouting movement was first started in Antioch and has been vitally interested in scouting. H. E. Cardiff said a few words in thanks and gave a promise, on behalf of the scout organization that scouting would continue in Antioch. At the conclusion of Cardiff's talk, Mr. Anderson took the first shovel of dirt from the foundation, and Dr. Deering dismissed the assembly.

The Walter E. Schneider and Sons company then took over the job of excavating the site for the foundation. Emil Hallawas, of Antioch Builders, who has been an active worker on the plans for the building since its inception, was present to stake out the location of the basement excavation.

Troop 91 of the Boy scouts were in full uniform and stood at attention during the ceremony, and the prospective members of the cub pack, soon to be organized were also present.

Mrs. A. H. Kaufmann, girl scout leader was present, representing her troop as were Mrs. W. C. Petty and Miss Mae Hartley, representing the Antioch Business and Professional Woman's club. Principal Richard Whitacre of the grade school, as well as many of the teachers of the school, was also present. Richard Eckert, assistant scout master, was in active charge of the scout troop.

It is believed that the preliminary work on the pouring of footings for the basement wall and attachment of sewer and water lines to the building can be completed within a few days.

Find Horseshoe

When actual digging with the power shovel was begun after the ceremony, Schneider, who is operator of the shovel, found a horseshoe in the third or fourth bucketful. The shoe was about three feet under the surface of the ground, and has evidently been there since the ground was filled in many years ago. It is hoped that this find will prove symbolical, and that the traditional luck, which is associated with it, will prove to be forthcoming.

Grade PTA Elects Officers Monday

Mrs. Donald Gibbs will serve as president of the Antioch Grade school PTA for the coming year. Other officers installed at a meeting of the organization Monday evening at the school were Mrs. Morris Pickus, vice president; Miss Vera Ranney, secretary; Mrs. Robert Carey, treasurer and Mrs. Barbara Holbek, publicity chairman. Mrs. Fern Lux was installing officer.

Mrs. Holbek gave a report of the projects carried out by the group during the year. Dental work, vaccinations, the purchase of an electric vacuum cleaner and movie projector and screen were among them.

Mrs. Donald Berkheiser was outgoing president, and she thanked the members for their co-operation during the year. A luncheon was served by the mothers of the kindergarten.

Mrs. Agnes Alford, who spent the winter in California, was calling on friends in Antioch this week.

Three Boys, Two Girls Given Ducking When Row Boat Overturns Sunday

Three boys and two girls whose names were not learned by those who gave them aid, were given a ducking Sunday afternoon when their row boat overturned on Lake Catherine. They held onto the boat until they reached shore at the C. K. Anderson residence.

Mr. Anderson, although busy engaged in entertaining a large group of guests, stopped and gave them warm shelter and hot drinks to take the chill they received from the cold waters, and after their clothing dried they left for home.

The Antioch Rescue squad was called but it was unnecessary for it to give aid.

Drainage Fault Makes Tiling For New Fire Barn Necessary First

Two Old Dug Wells Uncovered in Excavation Along with Spring

Because of the tendency of the excavation for the new fire station to collect water, Ed Kidera, the contractor, conferred with members of the village board last Friday and arranged with them to put in a tile drain to carry surplus water when the basement flooring is laid.

There is a foot fall from the 8-foot-deep basement to the sewer on Orchard street, providing plenty of drainage, it is said. The tile will keep the water from undermining the flooring.

While excavating, the workmen unearthed two old hand dug wells which at one time had served a hotel that stood on the site. Either a spring or a vein of water in the region of the wells kept the excavation flooded.

Work of putting in the drain was let to A. Fredson, Grayslake who expects to start work today or tomorrow. When that work is completed Kidera will begin putting in the footing.

What Does A Coal Strike Cost?

Just what did the last coal strike cost this country, its people, and the world? Here is a partial answer.

Nearly 50,000,000 tons of badly needed coal were not mined. Exports needed to carry out our foreign policy had to be drastically curtailed. Thousands of automobiles were not built for lack of steel. And thousands of coal cars, needed for next winter's peak movement, could not be manufactured.

The miners lost more than $100,000,000 in wages. Their welfare and pension fund lost about $5,000,000. And there is no way to estimate the millions lost to workers in the industries which had to cut down operations because of lack of coal.

The country's stockpiles of coal are sadly inadequate. They cannot be rapidly replenished—supply and current demand are in close balance, and our exports must be resumed if the European Aid Program is to have a chance of success in the fight to keep Communism from dictating to the world.

All that happened because one man obviously considers his organization superior to the welfare of the United States and its domestic and international policies during a period of grave crisis. He has it in his power to bring to an almost immediate stop the basic industries of the country, and to throw armies of workers into unemployment. He can decide whether or not the American people shall or shall not have coal to heat their homes. Can any country long allow any man such great and menacing authority?

On The Make—And On The Take

Press dispatches from London, covering the socialization of England's electric power industry, observed that "The new British Electricity Authority is faced with an embarrassing situation. Electricity rates are to go up. The reason: increased price of coal, higher cost of labor and raw materials."

The main argument used by the proponents of government ownership in this country, and elsewhere, is that it is a sure road to lower rates for industry, farmers and domestic users. When limited government ownership prevails, it is the policy to establish attractive rates that are not an honest reflection of the cost of producing the juice. Federal power projects are prime examples of this—very compelling evidence indicates that the general taxpayers must subsidize them with enormous sums.

That is the way government ownership works when on the make. But once an industry is completely socialized, and all free, private enterprise has been destroyed, a very different situation obtains. It is no longer government ownership on the take, as in England, and the consumer is helpless no matter how high the rates are raised.

Under private ownership, the rates are stringently regulated by state and Federal bodies. Only a very moderate profit is permitted. The highest possible standards of service and economy are required. Very heavy taxes are levied on the industry, to help pay for all the functions of government. And the consumer and the taxpayer get all the breaks.

So remember: There's a whole of a difference between socialism on the make and socialism on the take!

Slow Road To Riches

Do you want to get rich in a hurry? If you do, you'd better not go into retail trade.

A typical food chain recently issued a report on what happens to each dollar spent by consumers in its stores. More than eighty-five cents goes to farmers and processors, and for transportation. Nearly nine cents is absorbed by salaries, wages and other payments to workers. Over three cents is used for operating expenses such as rent, advertising, utilities, etc. A trifle more than a cent is taken by government in the form of taxes.

Those items add up to 98½ cents—which means that the system in question had a cent and a half, out of that shopping dollar, to pay dividends, and to build up its facilities.

Other kinds of retailing, which have a different inventory, service and turnover problems, must earn a larger profit. But in practically all cases that profit represents a mighty small share of consumer spending.

The basic cause of maximum service for a minimum profit is a simple one. It lies in an economic system which permits open competition in all lines of business. Anyone who wants to can start any kind of a store. He is perfectly free to take the business away from other stores if he can. The only limit imposed on him is decided by his own energy and ability.

We call that system free enterprise. Nothing to equal it has ever been devised.

V.F.W. Baseball Team Loses Opener Sunday; Northside A. C. Next

The local baseball team sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars opened its season last Sunday with the Bally Muck nine from Waukegan at the local high school grounds. Although the hitting was about equal the local boys went down to defeat by a score of 21 to 5. Wildness of the pitching staff was the result of a strong crosswind. Bernie Schneider was the leading hitter for Antioch with two doubles and a single in four trips to the plate.

Next Sunday, May 23, the boys will be host to the Northside A. C. nine from Waukegan. The game will start at 2 p. m. at the new baseball diamond, back of the high school.

Fred Scott, a local baseball enthusiast made a generous donation to the baseball team managed by Jack Crandall of the Sequoit Post. "Such community minded spirit surely deserves our thanks and deepest gratitude," said Crandall.

Antioch Wins from Zion In Track at Wauconda In Baseball There 8-6

Northwest Conference Meet Today at Palatine Lose to Grant

A victory in track and another in baseball helped speed the Antioch Township High school athletic season toward a satisfactory season during the past week.

The Sequoits edged out Zion-Benton Friday in a dual meet there 60½ to 57½. Antioch was strong in the field events and Zion-Benton in the dashes and hurdles. The Sequoits took the low hurdles, and the high jump, 220-yd. dash, half mile, pole vault, discus, shot-put, and half mile relay.

The baseball team won from Wauconda there Tuesday afternoon 8 to 6. Scott was the starting pitcher with Crawford coming in his relief. Appanatis caught Kuligowski's double scored three runs for Antioch and sewed up the game.

A much better game but one in which Antioch lost was played Friday at Grant. The score was 3 to 2 in Grant's favor. Antioch led 2 to 1 until the fifth inning when the home team pushed over two scores which were enough to win. Crawford pitched a good game.

The Sophomore-Freshman team lost to Barrington 10 to 5. Last evening they played Warren.

This afternoon the varsity track team is competing in the Northwest conference track and field meet at Palatine.

Other events in sports during the coming week include: Baseball, Grayslake here tomorrow afternoon; Wauconda here Monday; Northbrook here Wednesday; and Elia here the following Friday; track Lake County meet Tuesday.

cently organized Lake County Civic League. With its office at Waukegan, the county seat, the League is offering a two sided program to citizens and public officials of Lake County, seeking better local government services at lower cost to the taxpayer, and making available to public officials expert advice on methods of discharging public business in better ways.

According to Mr. Vos, the League's work so far this year has saved Lake County Taxpayers more than $17,500 in lower taxes and lower public expenses without impairing efficiency or starving essential services one bit. These savings were obtained in two townships—Deerfield and Lake Villa—when interested citizens took the figures obtained from analysis of township finances compiled by the League's Executive Secretary, to town meetings and made cuts in appropriations and tax levies which will not hurt township operations one bit.

Expert is Executive Secretary
"Township finances were analyzed in five townships this year, but because the League is still so new there wasn't enough citizen support at town meetings to carry out the league's economy recommendations except in those two townships," Mr. Vos stated. "The job of obtaining tax facts is that of our Executive Secretary, Walton R. L. Taylor, who lives in Vernon Township. Mr. Taylor has had more than ten years of experience as consultant on taxes and in government administration, including service as State Civic Service Commissioner in Virginia and as Assistant City Manager at Norfolk, Virginia. Mr. Taylor came to Lake County from Cincinnati, Ohio, where he has done similar work for organizations of citizens in what is generally agreed to be America's best governed city."

"In Waukegan, the city officials have appointed a citizens committee to recommend steps to deal with the city's $85,000 deficit, and the Committee has retained Mr. Taylor to make a full survey of city operations to provide the facts on which the committee can recommend economies or additional taxes, as those facts may indicate necessary," Mr. Vos continued. "I personally think that citizens and public officials alike will welcome impartial, non-political and nonpartisan information which will enable local government services to be provided more efficiently and more effectively. Every elective official likes to run for re-election with a creditable record of improving the work of his office, or economy in office, and here is an opportunity for such officials to get expert advice from a man who is a trained technical expert in such matters," he said.

To Mr. Anderson and Mr. Hill, one important outcome of the League's work will be its effect on state and federal taxation. "Every group that wants public money spent for some pet purpose has a high-priced lobby in Springfield and Washington," said Mr. Anderson, "and the taxpayer hasn't any effective organization to make his wants known to legislators. The Civic League, through its affiliation with the Taxpayers Federation of Illinois at Springfield and contacts with the Tax Foundation of Washington and New York City, is an effective means for getting sanity into Federal and State spending and taxation. The work of the Taxpayers Federation in getting the Butler Tax Laws and the now-famous House Bill 513 which puts a ceiling on taxation of local property, is something which can be done only where there are groups of interested organized citizens back home at the grass roots."

The Lake County Civic League has directors from each township and incorporated place in Lake County. Hill and Vos are directors from Antioch twps. and Antioch Village respectively. Mr. Anderson is a member of the all-important Finance Committee and all these are now working with that committee to enlarge the League's membership so that its work may be more effective League membership is open to all taxpayers.

AUXILIARY MEETING CHANGED TO MAY 21

The meeting of the Antioch American Legion auxiliary will be held Friday, May 21, instead of the regular date owing to the graduation exercises. This meeting will be devoted to a memorial program and Legion members will be guests.

Mr. and Mrs. John Oftedahl spent the weekend in Fairmont and Hanley, Minnesota, the guests of their mothers, Mrs. Ellen Oftedahl and Mrs. Anna Soma. The occasion was the celebration of their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary. On Monday they stopped at Beloit, Wis., to visit their new grandchild, "Darcy Marie Hagemann," born to their daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hageman, May 14, at the Beloit hospital.

SHORT STORY

Winter Evenings

By RUTH K. KENT

EVY liked winter evenings best because then she had time to do her fancy work. Before she married Bill her days were filled at the office and evenings she had to care for mamma . . . winter and summer. Now she had to sprinkle the lawn on summer evenings, but winter . . . last year she made that green needlepoint cushion she and Bill were so proud of. It was sacred to Evy . . . almost like a child.

This winter she was making seats for the dining room chairs, and they were coming along nicely until the Harpers moved in next door early in January. Kathy Harper was tall but she seemed dainty beside Evy's five feet. Kathy could twist her indulgent husband, Curt, around her finger. And her eyes often wandered across the fence after that first day she came over and gushed, "That gorgeous Wedgwood! You wouldn't sell it?"

Evy wouldn't. But the Italian pottery bowl and the tiny flowered picture frame and the blue pitcher found their way to Kathy's living room. Everything seemed to look better in Kathy's living room.

Kathy raved about the needlepoint cushion. Afterwards Bill said, "I'm surprised she didn't get it, too."

Then Kathy started bringing over Curt. "Let's have some bridge," she suggested.

One evening Kathy said, "Let's play for money."

Evy glanced at Bill, but he didn't move.

"Quarter a corner," Curt said. Bill got that defensive look.

"You'll have to work for it."

Bill was an accurate player, but Kathy had a way of taking all the tricks the way she took everything else. Mostly with her chatter. Bill couldn't concentrate. Kathy had a way of putting when she lost. That made Evy secretly afraid that Bill was letting her win.

So the needlepoint lay rolled in the sewing basket. "I'll work on it next week," Evy would vow.

But next week was always the same. Except that Curt Harper sort of faded out. Sometimes Evy and Bill would want to go to a movie. Kathy invited herself along and sat on the other side of Bill.

Mamma always said to Evy, "If you'd get mad once in a while, people wouldn't push you around." Evy was getting mad.

One evening when she was out making coffee she heard Kathy in the living room coaxing Bill for something. She'd lost her dollar . . . probably trying to coax it back. Kathy's laughter tolled a knell in Evy's heart.

Evy hurried in. Kathy cried, "Don't you dare, Bill . . ." and reached for Evy's needlepoint cushion, ready to plop it on Bill's head.

Kathy started bringing over her indulgent Curt.

"You put that pillow back," Evy shouted, "Don't you dare touch it."

Bill took the pillow gently. "Ah, ah . . . no touch."

Evy slammed down the tray. "Nobody touches that pillow. Least of all you, Kathy Harper. That's one thing to keep your hands off."

They stared at her. Evy realized she'd been screaming.

"I don't want coffee," Kathy said, "I have to go."

"Too bad," Bill said. "Give me my pen."

She threw Bill's fountain pen at him. "Take it, stingy," she said. The door slammed.

Evy crumpled to a chair. "I . . . got so mad . . ."

"You sure did," Bill reached for a cookie. "She won't be back."

Evy started to cry. Maybe Bill'd go calling on Kathy now. "How could I?"

Bill's eyes narrowed. "She was pawing your pillow."

"I don't care for myself," Evy cried. "But now you can't play bridge."

Bill scratched his head. "I thought you couldn't live without her. You mean . . . you said . . . I was doing it for you." He fingered his pen. "Well, she didn't get everything from us."

Evy smiled. Kathy didn't get anything, really. She laid her head on Bill's arm. "I'm going to finish that needlepoint now."

Unserved Warrant For Daltons Bared

Bloody Saga of Early Kansas Could Have Been Averted

TULSA, OKLA.—A warrant for the arrest of the three, Dalton brothers and five of their companions who blazed a trail of stage, train and bank robberies across Oklahoma and Kansas is now in the hands of a Tulsa man.

Had the warrant served its purpose, the bloody end of the Dalton gang at Coffeyville, Kan., might never have occurred. The paper shows that a U. S. deputy marshal wandered from place to place for two months in an effort to serve the warrant, which charged the gang with the $11,000 robbery of a Wells Fargo Express company office at Red Rock, Okla.

Bill Tilghman, whose reputation as a competent law officer was widespread, was handed the warrant by a U. S. commissioner for the Oklahoma territory in August, 1932.

What happened during the next two months is not known but a report scrawled on the warrant and signed by Tilghman said:

"... endeavored with great diligence to execute the same by proceeding to the Creek nation and divers other places and hereby make due return hereon as not being able to find the within defendants."

On October 5, 1932, the Daltons rode into Coffeyville. Bob and Emmett robbed the First National bank and escaped with $23,000. At the same time Grat Dalton, with henchmen Bill Powers and Dick Broadwell, went to the Condon National bank. There a teller stalled them long enough for Coffeyville citizens to be alerted.

A party of vigilantes surrounded the bank and the Daltons were trapped. Powers and Broadwell reached their horses, mounted but were cut down before they could get away.

In the same alley, Bob and Grat Dalton were riddled with bullets as they vainly tried to reach their horses. Emmett Dalton, still in his teens, was wounded seriously.

Today, Coffeyville residents show visitors the alley where the furious shooting match took place.

Here's One Sure System To Make Horses Pay Off

LAS VEGAS, NEV.—Three men walked into the Las Vegas club here, bet on a 44-1 shot in the seventh race at fair grounds track, New Orleans, collected $11,000 in winnings and departed.

During the running of the race the club had trouble with its racing wire, but it was repaired and flashed the information that Atomic City, the 44-1 shot, was the winner.

Earlier in the day a bank official informed the police chief that he saw a man cutting wires on a telephone pole behind the phone company.

Police Chief Malmberg said investigation revealed that the only wire cut was one of 1,200—the one carrying information to the Las Vegas club.

The police chief theorized that the gamblers heard the results of the race in another club before dashing into the Las Vegas club to place their wagers.

Two men were held for questioning. One, an ex-convict, is an electrician.

Hiyo Silver! Race to Old Mine Ready to Start Anew

DODGEVILLE, MICH.—The story of seven barrels of silver abandoned in an old mine near here is being told and re-told again and is expected to cause a silver rush any day now.

Seems that a group of miners in the middle of the last century wanted more pay. The mine management refused to grant them an increase. Having just neatly capped seven barrels of silver, the miners climbed out of their hole to continue the argument.

Negotiations continued for months while the seven barrels of silver lay in the mine shaft. Finally, when an agreement was reached the miners discovered that the shafting had weakened and they refused to enter the mine again. The silver treasure never was extricated.

Conservatively, the treasure is estimated to be worth about $14,500. Carlos Wenberg, graduate of Michigan College of Mining and Technology, contends that the story is true.

Baby Girl Sweater Fails To Fit Cocker Spaniel

INDIANAPOLIS, IND.—Two former school classmates met in a Terre Haute, Ind., elevator one day and began informing each other of the latest events in their lives.

Paul Hartwig remarked, "We have a beautiful four-month-old baby girl at our house. You must see her."

Mrs. Parker, who is Hartwig's former schoolmate, bought a little wool sweater for the baby and had it delivered to the Hartwigs.

She received a letter which thanked her for the gift but apologized:

"Our baby won't be able to wear it. Our darling girl is a registered cocker spaniel."

SHORT STORY

Wonderful Woman

By
RUTH K. KENT

ANN STANTON watched her husband's newspaper for signs of annoyance after she told him. Yes, he was lowering it slowly... his handsome face frowning. "What did you do that for?"

Ann buttered her toast. "Why not? I always took Elsie Olson to lunch when she was your secretary."

Harry gulped his coffee. "But Elsie was... well..."

Ann leaned back in her chair. Yes, Elsie was 38 and wore cotton stockings. Tess Barclay, the new secretary, was 20 and Harry could tuck her in his pocket. Ann remembered when Elsie Olson resigned and the boss hired Tess for Harry. "Sunny little girl taking Elsie's place," he'd announced. "No bigger than a minute."

"Pretty?" she asked. He'd shrugged. "Didn't notice," and that was when Ann took warning.

Harry was 30, and after seven years of marriage maybe he was getting a little tired... maybe of her. Ann had seen the little new girl one day when she stopped in the office to see Harry.

It was a few days later when she announced at breakfast, "I'm taking Miss Barclay to lunch today."

ANN walked into the Mayfair ahead of time. She sat studying the wall paper. Yes... things were working out right. That young lady would have to answer some questions. Nice subtle questions, of course.

Tess came right on time. Ann held out her hand. "Sit down, Tess," she smiled. "Everyone calls you that, don't they?"

Tess sat primly. "Yes, Mrs. Stanton."

"It was good of you to come," Ann said. "I'm sure you had something more interesting to do."

Tess picked up a fork and turned it over and over. "I... was supposed to do something else," she said. "But... I'm glad you asked me. I've... been wondering how I could talk to you."

Ann's senses prickled up. "You did? Was there something special you wanted to say?"

Tess twisted her napkin. "I... don't know how to begin. Mrs. Stanton, I... I want to talk about Mr. Stanton. But... maybe you won't understand."

Ann braced herself. "I'll try to understand."

The big blue eyes looked into Ann's... begged. "Is... does Mr. Stanton have good health?"

WELL! So now Ann knew. And this innocent-looking youngster had figured all the angles. Even to Harry's health. No doubt Harry seemed pretty old to her and she wanted to be sure he wouldn't turn senile the minute she caught him. Ann's voice was cold. "He's perfectly healthy."

The new secretary was 20 and Harry could tuck her in his pocket.

"I... I thought maybe he was sick. That would excuse him, I mean..." Tess looked almost frightened. "He's so impatient, I simply can't work for him any more. I make... mistakes, and he... really Mrs. Stanton he makes me work at noon to fix them. Oh dear, I hope you aren't hurt."

"Hurt?" All the buds on the wall paper seemed to burst into bloom for Ann. She could almost smell their fragrance. Impulsively she put her hand over the small one drumming nervously on the table. "Of course I'm not hurt, my dear. You mustn't be either. Harry's been accustomed to Miss Olson... she was there years and years and was sort of a machine. Don't quit, Tess." Ann found herself begging, "You can take it. And you'll have a good position. I'll walk back to the office with you when we finish."

Harry was puzzling over some invoices when Ann and Tess came into the office, arm in arm. "Here's your secretary to do that," Ann smiled.

She slipped out and smiled at the girls in the outer office, but was almost ashamed to face them. Ann knew they would say, "That Mrs. Stanton is such a wonderful woman. Not the least bit jealous of Mr. Stanton's secretaries."

Fuel Shortage Halts 62-Year-Old Vigil

Dead Man Fails to Return Home
As He Promised

CUTTINGSVILLE, VT.—The increased cost of fuel forced the closing of the sprawling estate of jovial, old John P. Bowman, who in 1886 directed that the house be maintained in waiting readiness for him after his death.

For 62 years people have been waiting for Bowman to come stomping out of the foothills, icicles on his majestic mustache, his velvet coat tails whipped by the winter wind, his rusty beaver hat cocked jauntily over one jolly eye. But since he died he has never reappeared.

Most faithful to the strange will has been 80-year-old George N. Jones, the home's custodian, who was quartered in the stately old house. Daily he wound clocks, dusted furniture, hung crisp, white curtains in the windows and tossed crackling logs in the fireplaces. He kept the huge rooms brightly lit each night. At dusk every day, he prepared a hot meal.

"The food's always been ready on time," Jones said, "but so far my wife and I have had to eat it ourselves."

After amassing a fortune in the leather business at Stony Creek, N. Y., Bowman retired to the large gabled house. Within three months after moving into the home his wife and two daughters' died as the result of a contagious disease. Some said the tragedy warped his mind.

Five years later he summoned his servants and told them sternly: "I'll soon be leaving but I'll be back. I promise I'll come back some winter day and I have never broken my word." One hour later he was dead.

His will left $50,000 in a trust fund to pay the upkeep of the house "pending my return."

"I'm not among those who think he'll return," said Caretaker Jones, "but if he actually walked in some night I wouldn't wait to see if he were a happy ghost. I may be getting on in years, but I'd make California before I slowed down enough to tell anybody what had happened."

87, But Still Can Lick His Weight in Wildcats

EUGENE, ORE.—Although he's 87, Lafe Boring proved that he still can lick his weight in wildcats—with a wooden cane.

Boring came upon a wildcat which was caught in a trap. The snarling animal broke free and viciously lunged at the elderly man whom he blamed for his troubles.

With the only weapon he had in his possession, a wooden cane, Boring pummeled the attacking wildcat and killed the beast. In the future angry wildcats will give Boring a wide berth.

Citizens Return Stolen Loot During 'Conscience Week'

TIRO, OHIO.—Citizens of this community can proudly boast that they possess a generous conscience. A collision with a train killed truck driver Vila Brunell, 38, and spilled his load of golf and tennis balls and tools all over the road.

Residents of Tiro picked most of them up and carted the loot to their homes.

Then Mayor Robert Eckstein and the pastors of the village's two churches, the Rev. R. H. Miller and the Rev. Kenneth Stover, made personal appeals to the people.

The mayor erected boxes marked "for salvaged tools" at the churches and the railroad depot. During Tiro's "conscience week" merchandise valued at $2,000 was put in the boxes.

"Most of the people," explained Mr. Stover, "did not realize they were stealing or doing anything wrong. They were just seized by mob psychology when they saw tools strewn on the ground and made off with what they could."

Any reward offered by the freight owners would be used for some worthy cause the mayor said.

Statistics Show That Spud Business Is in the 'Chips'

NEW YORK.—Today Americans are consuming potato chips at the rate of 261 million pounds a year, according to statistics released by National Potato Chip Institute.

Until about 10 years ago potato chips were merely a novelty food but now it takes 1,186,000 pounds of potatoes annually to do the job.

A 200 million dollar a year industry, potato chips have moved up in the social scale and frequently keep company with such high-brows as caviar and rare cheeses. No longer a companion for only a stein of beer, potato chips find their way into movies, nightclubs, homes and restaurants.

There are 250 firms in the potato chip business today. "They all sprang up from a freak accident which occurred 95 years ago when an Indian cook dropped a slice of potato into boiling fat and liked what happened."

SINCE THE Chicago Railroad Fair (centennial of the first steam locomotive out of Chicago) will be held from mid-July into September on Chicago's lakefront (where the World's Fair was held several years ago), we have examined a few records having to do with the railroad's infancy. Learned that had New York State listened to a gentleman from Hoboken in 1812, credit for the putting-together of tracks and steam power would have gone to the United States instead of England. Learned how Chicago and Northern Illinois' first two railroads used Chicago's first locomotive, same passenger station, and same tracks. Learned how another of our railroads was the first to benefit from the Land Grant, an experiment which greatly stimulated railroad construction in these parts. And the putting-together of our findings and John McKee's sketches has resulted in the first of our two stories on some of our railroads.

This Man Favors A 'Dickle' Cup Of Good Coffee

NEW YORK.—Edward Walsh Mehren is going to Washington with an idea he says will save the public 5 billion dollars a year.

The billions of dollars savings estimate comes from Mehren's figures showing Americans drank 25 billion cups of nickel coffee in 1939. Today that coffee ranges up in price to a dime. Drinking nickel coffee would save 625 million dollars a year, he says. It is the same with other things.

He wants a dickle or maybe a jime.

That is, he wants the United States to make coins worth 2½ cents, 7½ cents, and 12½ cents.

His friends suggested the coin halfway between a dime and a nickel be called a "dickle" or "jime" for jimey and dime. That would make the 2½ cent piece a "pickie" for penny and nickel, or "jenny" for jimey and penny. The 12½ cent coin of course would be a "bit," two bits being a quarter.

For nearly a year Mehren has been on his crusade for fractional coinage. Now the Beverly Hills, Calif., soft drink manufacturer is heading directly for President Truman.

Mehren argues this way: America has only four coins worth a quarter or less. But Britain has six, and The Netherlands and Sweden each have seven coins worth a quarter or less.

With the addition of three new coins, the United States would have seven, too.

"They would be used for soft drinks, sales taxes, telephones, street car and bus tokens, magazines, newspapers and all other commodities and services that are too cheap at 5 cents and too expensive at 10 cents," says Mehren.

"Everybody is for it," he said. "I've got hundreds of letters from all over the country. This is a thing America needs. The people want it. And I'm going to get a plank in both the Democratic and Republican platforms at Philadelphia calling for this currency reform."

"It will take a lot of silver. Western Senators would not oppose that. But then I also propose to abolish the silver dollar and half dollar."

"Nobody ever uses them any more."

Brother, can you spare a jime!

Trash Collector Junks Air Conditioner for $6

SALISBURY, MD.—When John Davis, a trash collector, gets an order he carries it out. Davis was sent to clean an alley back of a theater. The next day the theater manager called police to report that a 600-pound metal cylinder was missing. It was the air-conditioning unit.

The unit was recovered from a junk yard where Davis sold it for $6.60. Davis said he thought it was junk, and shuddered as he told how he labored with five men to get it on a truck.

Doctors Discover Method To Keep Flowers Forever

PATERSON, N. J.—Two brothers, Drs. Phillip and Sidney Joffe, announced the discovery of a solution that will preserve freshly cut flowers forever.

Their secret process fixes the cell structure of the flower and preserves its color, form and texture. The flower loses its fragrance, however.

The brothers had worked on the solution in collaboration with an uncle, Phillip Joffe, for the last eight years.

The preparation will go on sale in a department store in New York at "a reasonable price," they announced.

There are three steps in the preservation process, Joffe said, and they will be simple enough for any housewife to perform.

First, the flower is dipped into a solution that dehydrates it, fixing its form and stopping bacterial decay. It is then dipped into another solution and dried.

A third solution establishes a permanent acid-alkaline balance in the flower.

When finished, the flower is in a fixed state of preservation that is impervious to heat, cold or time.

When a fellow buys his gal an orchid for a dance, she can put it away after the dance until the next time. All she'll have to do is dust it and pin it on again, Joffe said.

Game of "Cops and Robbers" Hospitalizes One Brother

PITTSBURGH.—It was just a game of "cops and robbers" Joseph Martinez, 10, was playing with his three brothers.

Joseph was "shot." "Playing dead," he fell—and was impaled on a stick.

While Joseph screamed realistically, his brothers laughed. Their joy turned to horror when they found four inches of the stick had penetrated his abdomen. His condition is critical.

Lion Tamers Shun Common Colds But Get the Shivers

MEMPHIS, TENN.—If you are bothered with troublesome colds get a job as a lion tamer. Your colds will disappear but in their place shivers will run down your back.

Capt. Dick Clemens, veteran lion tamer, explained that men who work with lions never get colds.

"I haven't had one in 20 years," he said, "and all the other lion men I know are the same way."

He doesn't know how to explain it—it's just a fact.

It's the same way with wounds healing. "A lion gets all torn up today and he's healed tomorrow. I'm the same way. I got a bad tear not long ago, but it was well in a few days. You never get any infection. A scratch is more dangerous than a bite, because the lion may have gotten something on his claws walking about. We never sew up a lion wound."

His Worst Mishap
His worst mishap was in Minneapolis about four years ago.

"You can't call it an accident, though. Any damned fool can get hurt in a lion cage, but there aren't any accidents. If you get hurt it's your own fault."

"I had a new lion, Nero, that I just got from a zoo. It makes all the difference in the world in what order they come into the arena out of the chute."

"I was getting a lot of applause and was bowing to the audience. I was thinking, 'Boy, am I ever going over here,' and then I turned around and saw Nero coming toward me. It should have been Tyrone, my boss lion. Every lion act has a boss lion."

I shouted, "Wrong lion," but my helper must have thought I yelled, "Come on, lion," because he opened the chute door and let another one in. I'd been paying that man good money for a couple of years, too.

Falls Over Prop
"Nero was coming at me and as I backed away I fell over a prop. I threw my leg up to protect myself. They always grab for the stomach. The lion grabbed my leg. He bit it all the way through twice and dragged me around the arena, with the shifters firing blanks at him all the time. He opened his mouth to get another bite and I got away. My wife held him off with blanks while I got out the door."

Clemens said he lost all sensation while the lion was mauling him. When he got out of the arena his leg gave way beneath him—broken. He was white with rage, sweat popping out of him.

He went back in the cage, broken leg and all, and finished his act. The audience thought it was part of the show. Then he went over to the handler who let the wrong lion in and hit him so hard he broke all the knuckles on his right hand.

Fear is always with him, he admitted. "Even today I worry every time. Once a trainer gets where he has no fear, no sensation, while working lions, he's gone."

Medical Journal Assails
Doctors Dodge Late Calls

CHICAGO.—"Many physicians do dodge the making of calls on patients in the late hours of the night or early morning."

The Journal of the American Medical Association made this accusation in commenting on recent complaints of this nature from "many sections of the country."

Some cities, the Journal reported, have set up machinery for meeting the demands for emergency medical service 24 hours a day through a physicians' telephone exchange.

The exchange maintains a list of physicians willing to make calls at night or to respond to the calls of persons unknown to them.

"Actually, comparatively few 'night calls' are so urgent that harm would result from postponing responses until morning," the Journal said. "Nevertheless, the patient who suffers pain or the mother who is frightened over a condition in her child that she does not understand is little interested in explanations as to the percentage of emergency calls that are not really emergencies."

The Journal quoted the principles of ethics which read:

"A physician is free to choose whom he will serve. He should, however, always respond to any request for his assistance in an emergency or whenever temperate public opinion expects his service."

Country Folks Live Longer
Than City Residents

NEW YORK.—If you live in the country, your chances are much better of living longer than a city dweller, according to statisticians of the Metropolitan Insurance company. City life, moreover, is relatively harder on men than on women, they say.

"The death rate in cities and towns is higher than in rural areas by about one-fourth among white males and by only one-eighth among white females," the statisticians say. "Almost every cause of death shows a higher mortality among city dwellers."

Uncle Joe Rules
The Roost

By
M. J. COLLINS

BY GOL, woman, why don't you put that book down and come to bed?" Uncle Joe had just gone into the bedroom off the kitchen.

Aunt Martha was comfortably seated in a rocking chair by the large old-fashioned stove, feet on the oven door, reading a love story.

He slid cautiously under the sheets. "Ouch! It's cold!" he exclaimed. "My feet are like ice."

Aunt Martha ignored his moaning and groaning for a few seconds. "Don't tell me you want the old lady to warm up your feet!" she said tartly. "At this time of the year, spring, too."

"I don't care if it's the hundred and second day of spring. The way the weather is acting up now you'd think it was the middle of winter, the ground-hog must have seen about four shadows this year! Brrrr! I'm freezing."

"Oh, all right," Aunt Martha said resignedly, putting her book on the kitchen table and getting up. "What's that?" she exclaimed suddenly, cocking her head to one side.

SHORT STORY

Uncle Joe Rules The Roost

By
M. J. COLLINS

BY GOL, woman, why don't you put that book down and come to bed?" Uncle Joe had just gone into the bedroom off the kitchen.

Aunt Martha was comfortably seated in a rocking chair by the large old-fashioned stove, feet on the oven door, reading a love story.

He slid cautiously under the sheets. "Ouch! It's cold!" he exclaimed. "My feet are like ice."

Aunt Martha ignored his moaning and groaning for a few seconds. "Don't tell me you want the old lady to warm up your feet!" she said tartly. "At this time of the year, spring, too."

"I don't care if it's the hundred and second day of spring. The way the weather is acting up now you'd think it was the middle of winter, the ground-hog must have seen about four shadows this year! Brrrr! I'm freezing."

"Oh, all right," Aunt Martha said resignedly, putting her book on the kitchen table and getting up. "What's that?" she exclaimed suddenly, cocking her head to one side.

"Someone's standing over chickens!" Aunt Martha cried excitedly. "I read about a gang that's doing it all over the country. Do something, Joe!"

"Get the shotgun!" Uncle Joe belatedly sliding out of bed. "I'll show them!"

AUNT MARTHA dashed upstairs to the bedroom they used in the summer and got his shotgun out of the closet. When she returned Uncle Joe was out in the kitchen, still in his night shirt. He had laced his boots on and had an old toque of Aunt Martha's pulled down over his ears.

"Where's that flashlight?" "I don't know, you had it last."

"Get the lantern then."

"You're not goin' out there without your pants," Aunt Martha cried, aghast at his get-up.

"Stand aside, woman, this is a man's job," he ordered imperiously. "Ain't no time to fool around." He dashed straight for the chicken house, his night shirt flying. Aunt Martha, wrapped in an old coat, was close at his heels.

"There's nothin' in here," he told Aunt Martha a few seconds later. He peered around intently. "Not a thing," he muttered. "Good gravy! Scat you! Scat!" he yelled suddenly. There was a crash and the dim light of the lantern went out. Aunt Martha gasped at all the racket.

"Joel Joel! Are you all right?" There was no answer. Then Uncle Joe cried hoarsely, "Get the flashlight, Martha, there's three of them wandering around in here. Hurry!"

AUNT MARTHA opened the door cautiously. A very strong odor assailed her nostrils. She swung the beam of the light all over the place. Most of the hens were standing or sitting all over the straw-covered floor, the lantern and shotgun were there also. "Joe, where are you?" she called.

"I'm up here."

Aunt Martha swung the beam upward. Uncle Joe was perched on the topmost roost, hanging on to a rafter, in the company of about 20 distressed hens. It was hard to say who looked the most alarmed, Uncle Joe or the hens. Aunt Martha laughed loudly.

"All right, laugh," he said sourly as he climbed stiffly down from his precarious perch. "What else could I do? At least I frightened them away."

"I don't doubt that," Aunt Martha said, dryly.

"Say, I don't feel any too warm out here," Uncle Joe shivered.

"You better git back to the house this minute, Joe Quinn, or you'll catch your death of cold," Aunt Martha took over the situation.

Uncle Joe permitted himself to be hustled into bed. As he sat up sipping the hot lemonade Aunt Martha had made him, he said, "I'm cold all over."

A short time later she brought in two old-fashioned hot water bottles wrapped in towels. She tucked in one at his feet and put the other at his back.

"There they are," she said sweetly. "That'll keep you warm."
